Enough is enough, do not allow cell phone usage on airline flights. Allowing cell phone usage on airline flights will open the door for all kinds of security issues, high jackers, and terrorist. The implications of 100 people in a closed area talking away on the phones is outragious. One guy sitting next to a little girl cussing while he talks on the phone. Another guy drinking talking on the phone breaking up with his wife and becoming suisidal. I don't know about you, but it just does not sound like it is worth the misory of the public to allow this. The risk of putting the public in danger is not worth a little convenous. I think it will end up being a devistating blow to an already struging air line industry. Please do not allow this to happen.
